*P*revious Compagnia Annual Reports - four so far with the present Report for the Year 2000 - have been premised by a description of the changes in the legal framework affecting former Banking Foundations, the Compagnia among them. In fact, the complex picture painted by the changing new legislation set the pace for the changes our foundation, like others, underwent. Up until this year:

In this respect the year 2000 is a milestone in the life of the Compagnia and marks the completion of its 'institutional change' which lasted nearly a decade. It also marks the beginning of a new era in the many centuries of the Compagnia's life. In fact the new Articles of Association, the fundamental Charter of the Compagnia, was approved this year. The new Governing Bodies were appointed and the new Internal Rules made it possible to set the main guidelines for the Compagnia's activities and a re-thinking of the way in which it operates. Planning for the year 2001-2004 has also been outlined.

The deep formal and essential changes which began with the enactment of the Ciampi Law have completed their journey: the new legislation proved and is still proving both the financial system and the world of foundations can be fully innovated. In fact from now on the drive for change will no longer come from the outside, from laws such as they are, but will be led by the Foundations', and, in the case in point, by the Compagnia's internal engines. Foundations will have to fully develop their potential and take their role as major actors in Italy's civil, cultural and economic development.

It might be of some use to recall that the Compagnia played a proactive and forthcoming role in the recently completed process of change: new forms of organisation were put in place before their time, using change as an opportunity rather than passively accepting it. This ability to keep abreast with innovation is one of the features of our identity and will be valued in the times that await us.

*Were I to convey the meaning of the formal and essential meaning of the process currently coming to fruition in one sentence, I would refer to the Compagnia's being a subject defined in Private Law, since this affects both its juridical identity and its function. A few observers may still consider the situations of former banking foundations ambiguous: we are pleno iure private subjects required to appreciate our financial resources for activities of social use, a role traditionally associated with public bodies, the latter often being a partner in many projects. However, such doubts appear to ensue from the* residual difficulties which Italy is encountering in gaining a full understanding of the culture of subsidiarity, whereby the active role of the private entities and of the third sector is key to the defence of general interests.

The long standing European and American tradition of modern philanthropic endeavours is based upon the idea of the Foundation, as the richness of the model suggests. In time the tradition has evolved, moving away from the mere charity and the haphazardness and personal approach to its choices in grant allocation and has now come to define a complex regulation based on two tenets: the aspiration to play a strategically important role - which requires a careful aim-driven allocation of resources in time and the definition of yardsticks to assess the cost effectiveness of its actions using evaluation systems.

The above have been the underlying principles of the Compagnia's culture which has constantly strived to remain active and reactive: active, in so far as it has identified objectives and priorities, developing its interpretation of the situations it operated in; reactive because this stems from the constant monitoring of the context, able to offer stimuli and signals that have to be interwoven into its policies.

The quest for a balance between these roles underlies the most important operative change for the year 2000, in the wake of the new Internal Rules, that is the definition of Programmes as a framework for projects. Programmes can be defined as a co-ordinated and consistent framework for projects: the Compagnia then defines the objective in line with its aims and consistently with the publicized strategic guidelines. Programmes are extremely complex and require a host of means and solutions as well as a degree of flexibility in their actual implementation. Specifically, they may be managed directly - including the promotion and participation in organisations operating in its institutional fields of activities - or be a contribution to activities and projects by entities outside the Foundation. Two cross-sector Programmes were set up in the year 2000: the Museum network in the Turin's centre - with an initial allocation of 25 billion Lire - and the Oncology Programme - cancer research, prevention and treatment - with an initial allocation of 33 billion Lire.

The creation of permanent or participated organisations is also important for the attainment of our statutory goals, they are functions of the Compagnia's: the Ufficio Pio, the Educatorio Duchessa Isabella, now the Fondazione per la Scuola. Not to forget the bodies where we are partners with others: the Istituto Superiore Mario Boella or the Consorzio Collegio Carlo Alberto. In the year 2000 major resources were allocated to these bodies as well as redefining the duties, aims, and at time the structures in a process which will be completed by the year 2001. Thanks to this network of external but closely connected partners, the Compagnia is moving towards a more complex type of organisation which might be best defined by the term 'group': the core is supported by specialised branches able to piece together the grant making activity and more direct intervention.

In terms of resources, the Compagnia ranks among the foremost foundations in Europe. As from the first Report, this one too shows that the previous year's records have been exceeded in terms of grants for the Compagnia's institutional activities. However, the picture would not be complete if I were not to mention the wealth of non material resources which along side our assets, are what the Compagnia counts on: the expertise and dedication of the people who work - at all levels. It is thanks to them that the institution I chair enjoys its reputation in the world of Italian and European foundations. Furthermore, the Compagnia's reputation is also the result of our commitment to transparency - as our Report spells out.

In 1563 a group of Turin's citizens established a brotherhood wishing to help the poor and fight usury: thus the Compagnia di San Paolo was founded. A few years later the Compagnia started nonprofit pawnbroking activity (the Monte di Pietà as it was known). A financial and credit business developed as a result of the Monte's activity and Compagnia spent its profits to assist the needy.

In later centuries, the Monte di Pietà became an actual credit institution which has recently turned into the core one of the largest Italian banking groups, the Istituto Bancario San Paolo di Torino. Charity work has continued along side consistently with the changing needs of society.

Following the new legislation introduced by the Carli-Amato Bill in 1991, the Compagnia re-organised: banking and projects aimed at social development became independent activities. The Bank became a shareholding company, under the Compagnia di San Paolo's control. The Compagnia ensures a historical and legal link with the past and maintains its mandate and social commitment in favour of the local community where the San Paolo roots are to be found.

The 1997 privatisation of the Istituto Bancario San Paolo di Torino S.p.A. was the first and foremost step in the process. The Compagnia has thus become a separate institution no longer holding the controlling share of the bank and focussed on appreciating its potential in the non profit sector.

In December 1998 the Italian Parliament approved a Bill of Reform of the former bank foundations. The Decree was issued in May 1999 and was followed by Treasury guidelines. The new legal framework meant the Compagnia was in a position to draft its Articles of Association, approved in March 2000, thus becoming a fully powered private law foundation.

ISTITUTO SUPERIORE MARIO BOELLA sulle tecnologie dell'informazione e delle telecomunicazioni (The Mario Boella Institute for Advanced ICT Studies)

In 1998 the Compagnia and the Turin Polytechnic established a joint co-operation programme to promote the development of Information and Communication Technologies (ICTs) and specifically with the intention of establishing an Institute of Higher ICT Studies in the context of the Polytechnic's growth and development plan.

The Compagnia awarded 42 billion Lire for the 1998-2002 five-year period. Thirty-four billion Lire have been earmarked for the development of the building and facilities of the Institute and 8 billion Lire for the financial backing of training and research projects, especially for those in the Turin area.

On May the 31st, 1999, the Compagnia and the Polytechnic established the "Comitato per l'Istituto Superiore e le ICT" (the Committee for the Institute of Advanced Studies and ICTs), and the Mario Boella Institute was officially founded in July 2000.

The practical aims of the Institute are wide-ranging including teaching, research, social and technological innovation. The Institute is fully committed to the promotion and networking with the other ITC actors in the community with a view to promote the development of innovative projects, including entrepreneurial activities. In these early years the institute will mainly operate in the following areas:

- ◆ promoting and funding of multidisciplinary technological development research programmes and curiosity driven research projects;
- ◆ backing innovative study courses, such as the Master's Degree Course in e-Business Studies, the first one having already been completed. This will enlarge the Polytechnic's offer on ICT-courses;
- ◆ knowledge building on the increasingly strong connection between social and organisational changes and the new technologies – starting with the Mondo Bit 2000 cycle of conferences.

Furthermore, in the year 2001, the Compagnia awarded a 3 billion Lire grant to the Institute for its programme on an integrated research, training and technology transfer in the field of global software for the fourth generation cell phones.

CONSORZIO COLLEGIO CARLO ALBERTO Moncalieri (Turin)

In March 1999 the Carlo Alberto Consortium for Advanced Training in Finance and Economics was established at the Collegio Carlo Alberto in Moncalieri (Turin). The founding members of the Consortium include the University of Turin, the CORIPE-Piemonte (Conorzio per la Ricerca e l'Istruzione Permanente -the Cosortium for Research and Life Long Training) and SAA (Scuola di Amministrazione Aziendale - the School of Management).

The project is aimed at establishing a Turin tertiary centre of excellence in the following fields as well as conserving and appreciating the cultural heritage of the Collegio Carlo Alberto: economics and finance, the CORIPE also being located in the Collegio Carlo Alberto; advanced public policy studies.

The Compagnia had awarded 5.5 billion Lire in 1998 for the rent, and initial refurbishing and renovation to be carried out on the building. Conversion and adaptation of the building will be completed in the 2001-2004 period. A 12 billion Lire grant was awarded in the year 2000 for this purpose.

CORIPE mainly works in the field of economic and financial Master's Degree Courses. The S. Cogneetti De Martis Department of Economics, the G. Prato Department of Economic and Financial Studies in co-operation with the Turin Polytechnic and the University of Eastern Piedmont share its courses for their joint PhD in European Economic Studies.

The four research centres based at the Collegio all began their activities in 1999-2000, scientific research being focussed on pension, labour, federalist, local transport and local service public policies.

Furthermore, in agreement with the Compagnia, the Carlo Alberto Centres may also supervise (monitor and assess) and support Compagnia-funded research projects in their field of expertise.

The Carlo Alberto Research Centres

At the end of 1999, CeRP was established as an independent research centre in CORIPE-Piemonte. It is a Centre on Social Security, Pension Funds, and Welfare Policies, focussing on the various alternatives in pension savings and is a post graduate training centre for young researchers. CeRP welcomes researchers and experts from Italian and foreign Universities and Research Centres. The Compagnia awarded a 780 million Lire grant in 1999-2000 for CeRP's start-up and activities.

In the early part of the year 2000, the R. Revelli LABORatorio was established as part of CORIPE. It focuses on projects on employment, the reform of social welfare and buffers, as well as planning and assessment of active labour policies.

The Compagnia awarded a 748 million Lire grant for 1999-2000.

The Compagnia has also joined the "Centro Studi sul Federalismo" (The Research Centre on Federalism) established in the year 2000, with the Universities of Turin, Pavia, Genoa and Eastern Piedmont. The Consortium will promote and co-ordinate research projects on Federalism as well as establishing a documentation centre and library.

The Compagnia awarded 340 million Lire to fund the establishment and running of the Consortium at the Carlo Alberto College until the end of the year 2001.

HERMES - The Research Centre on the legislation and economics of local transport and regulated services - was also established in the year 2000. The Centre aims at studying the juridical and economical problems connected with the decentralisation of the local public services.

The Compagnia awarded 220 million Lire for the establishment, starting up and first year of activity of the Centre.

EDUCATORIO DUCHESSA ISABELLA DELLA COMPAGNIA DI SAN PAOLO The Foundation for Schools

The Compagnia intends to give its support to the changes following the introduction of self-government in schools. This is why at the end of 1999, the Foundation for Schools was established in Turin, converting the former Educatorio Duchessa Isabella of the Compagnia di San Paolo – ONLUS, first established in the late 16th Century.

The new Articles of Association were approved in February 2001 and establish the Foundation which will be hosted in the old premises of the Educatorio. The Compagnia awarded 5,595 million Lire to the Foundation for its activities and for renovation and refurbishment.

The overall aim of the Foundation is to work with schools, raising standards of education, appreciating and circulating the more innovative projects developed by Italian schools, as well as striving to make the education more “European”, for instance by transferring good practices from other countries. Furthermore the Foundation will be able to benefit from the Compagnia's projects, so that education may interface with the world of art and cultural heritage, health and scientific research.

The Foundation's first project was launched in April of the year 2000. It was called the Centoscuole Project (One Hundred Schools) and homed in on school self-management. The first edition was addressed to secondary schools and was organised with the Local Education Authority and IRRE – the Regional Education Research Institutes- formerly IRSSAE. The Competition finished on the 1st of December 2000 and winners received their prizes at the Vigna di Madama Reale: ten 20,000 Euros prizes and eleven 5,000 Euros ones.

The Jury mentioned the fact that high-level projects exceeded available prizes and nominated another 5 projects for which the Compagnia awarded an overall 195 million Lire.

In 2001 the Foundation organised the second edition of Centoscuole and experimentally a test run of the CIIS - Centi Integrati Intermedi di Servizio (Integrated Intermediate Service Centres) established by the Regional Authorities of the Ministry of Education, following the signature of a protocol of understanding.

Furthermore, the Foundation is committed to the national promotion and communication programme related to the “Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union” launched by the Italian Government, the European Parliament and the European Commission. The Foundation is especially involved in the circulation and knowledge development of the Charter in schools, especially using the www.cartadeidiritti.net web site.

In the framework of the projects aimed at the young generations for the growth of a “European Citizenship”, the Foundation is supporting a joint Compagnia's Ufficio Pio and National Conscientious Objection Service research project on School – Conscientious Objection Services and European Voluntary Services.

The Compagnia's 2001 main projects will include that on the assessment and evaluation of European and Italian schooling, to be carried out with relevant expert associations, research centres and foundations in Italy and in the rest of Europe.

The activity of the Foundation for Schools is completed by the more traditional scholarship programme of the Compagnia's Educatorio Duchessa Isabella for worthy students from households experiencing financial difficulties.

THE UFFICIO PIO

The Ufficio Pio was founded in 1595 as an offshoot of the Compagnia di San Paolo. Throughout the centuries it has maintained its original vocation as a charity for the poor and for people experiencing difficulties and has been the beneficiary of many bequeaths, offers and donations.

In time, the Ufficio Pio has fine tuned its welfare and assistance services and has now become a sort of social emergency service managing cases through an office which people experiencing economic difficulties for whatever reason can refer to. It operates through a network of voluntary Delegati (delegated officials) who are spread all over the community and whose job it is to refer the actual situation and especially critical situations.

About 4,400 people were attended to in the year 2000, 683 of which being first time contacts.

According to its Articles of Association, Italian citizens living in the Turin metropolitan areas are the beneficiaries of the Ufficio Pio's charitable work, and most are funded by the Compagnia di San Paolo. For the past 3 years, the Compagnia has been awarding 5 billion Lire a year.

In the year 2000 the Ufficio was re-organised and the Association of the Ufficio Pio di San Paolo Volunteers was established (Associazione Volontari Ufficio Pio San Paolo) to manage the so called "ordinary financial contributions", while the Ufficio Pio is shifting towards a more project oriented approach while maintaining its focus on people in difficulty.

The Compagnia's interest in Research focuses around two main areas: Scientific Research and Economic and Juridical Research which in turn interact fruitfully with the Education and Health Sectors.

In the course of the year 2000, the Compagnia further developed its planned medium term projects, some of which had taken off in previous years. Continuity has led to the identification of high level expert partners.

Furthermore, projects with specialised agencies and bodies – such as the Consorzio Collegio Carlo Alberto and the Istituto Superiore Mario Boella – have enabled the Compagnia to test a number of organisational models and modi operandi both as a sponsor and as a partner.

SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH

Focus was on basic and applied research, on the popularisation of science and on studies aimed at the development of new diagnostic and therapeutic biomedical applications.

Information technology as researched by the Istituto Superiore Mario Boella (see section on Education) also came under the Scientific Research.

Basic and Applied Research

In the field of Basic Research the Compagnia awarded 8 grants, amounting to 1,788 million Lire.

◆ The Compagnia has awarded a grant to the NGS – Neutrinos at the Gran Sasso – project to build a high energy beam generated by CERN's SPS (Super-Proto Synchrotron) in Geneva. The beam will be aimed at and detected by the INFN (Nuclear Physics National Institute) laboratory close to the Gran Sasso motorway tunnel.

In the year 2000 the Compagnia awarded a 1 billion Lire grant to CERN for the NGS project as it had in the previous year, and specifically for the purchase of systems and equipment manufactured by Italian firms.

◆ The Bioengineering Centre is a research and training unit at Department of Electronics of the Turin Polytechnic where the Neuromuscular System and Motor Rehabilitation Laboratory (LISIN) has been established. The aim of the Centre is to co-ordinate, integrate and transfer bioengineering research and teaching to the Health System and to small enterprises. In the year 2000, the Compagnia awarded a 180 million Lire grant as follows: 100 million Lire for the Centre's institutional activities, 80 for a research and co-operation project with ESA, the European Space Agency.

◆ A 175 million Lire grant was awarded to the University of Turin – the Department of Inorganic Chemistry, Physics and Materials – for the purchase of the equipment needed to update a diffractometer used to design drugs and study new materials, biotechnologies and for the chemistry of the environment.

◆ The Compagnia awarded 150 million Lire to the Turin Biotechnology Foundation as an association fee: the Foundation is a research, study and advanced training centre which also promotes co-operation with social partners and business.

◆ A 120 million Lire grant for the popularisation of scientific topics was awarded to the Associazione Centro Scienza di Torino for the series “2000-2001 Giovedì Scienza” and for the “National Week of Scientific and Technological Culture”, promoted by the Ministry of University and Technical and Scientific Research (MURST).

The inflatable Starlab Planetarium for the 10th “Scientific and Technological Week” organised in Turin by the Science Centre Association with a 60 million Lire Compagnia grant.

◆ The Compagnia awarded a 100 million Lire to the ISI - Istituto per l’Interscambio Scientifico - Foundation in Turin. The grant was earmarked for training and research activities in the 2000-2001 period, and for the organisation of a seminar aimed at identifying basic and standardised levels of care, as well as for the establishment and start-up phases of a laboratory specialised in the identification of DNA repair polymorphisms.

◆ The Subalpine Weather Society is the largest Italian meteorological association. It is also in charge of the conservation and development of the scientific activity of Moncalieri’s Collegio Carlo Alberto Weather Observatory (Turin) as well as of the conservation of its equipment and historical library.

The Compagnia awarded a 55 million Lire grant to the Consorzio Collegio Carlo Alberto for the Subalpine Weather Society’s updating of the scientific equipment at the College’s Observatory.

Biomedical Research

The Compagnia is committed to the conservation and appreciation of the Art, that is the conservation and appreciation of the artistic heritage, including any relevant study and research. As in previous years, the focus was on monuments in city centres, and specifically the development and growth of the Turin and Genoa museum districts.

The regeneration of the city is still the Compagnia's main interest, the city being seen both as the urbs (the material city) and as civitas (the cultural and political space). In the year 2000, the Compagnia increased its commitment including the non urban areas of the Regions Piedmont and Liguria, with a focus on refurbishments and renovations of buildings which could lead to socio-economic development in keeping with the local identities and traditions. Consistently with the above-mentioned guidelines, the Compagnia's actions were aimed at projects requiring major financial and planning investments.

The 3rd edition of the Centocittà Award confirmed the success of a national project: cities compete with architectural projects of urban regeneration and architectural refurbishment to be used for relevant social purposes and the best are selected.

Projects aimed at the conservation of historical military and religious heritage, as well as archaeological projects, exhibitions, research grants and training were also implemented.

REGENERATION OF CITIES

TURIN

The Compagnia promoted 11 projects aimed at appreciating the artistic heritage of the city, as well as the Museum District.

Funds allocated for the above projects amounted to 7,199 million Lire.

Refurbishment and Renovation of the Villa della Regina (The Queen's Villa)

The Compagnia promoted the restoration and refurbishment of the buildings and gardens of the Villa della Regina, on the hills around Turin, according to the plan by Superintendent for Artistic and Historical Heritage of Piedmont.

The Villa della Regina was known as the Vigna del Cardinale Maurizio (Cardinal Maurizio's Vineyard) until the 18th century: it had been built by Prince Maurizio, son of the Duke Carlo Emanuele I in the early 17th century in keeping with the style of a Roman Villa.

The plan of the Superintendent designates the use of the building for “compatible and integrated activities”, that is : 1) the Museum of the Villa itself with historical routes in the garden and park, spaces for tours and teaching sessions on the ground floor, furnished room on the first floor, at the time known as the “floor of the Nobility”, formal gardens and jeux d’eau, fountains and water-games; 2) a Documentation and Cataloguing Centre for the Superintendent; 3) a history and teaching laboratory in the garden, near the Vine-dresser’s House; 4) a Visitors’ Centre with ticket office, teaching aids, bookshop, security, cafeteria and restaurant in the area where currently there are the ruins of Palazzo Chiablese.

The overall cost of the project is set at 40 billion Lire and it is to be completed by 2003. Funds are being allocated by the Compagnia, the Ministry for Cultural Heritage and Events, the Region Piedmont, the CRT Foundation and the Consulta per la Valorizzazione dei beni artistici e culturali di Torino (Consultative Committee for the Artistic and Historical Heritage).

GENOA

The Strada Nuova Museums

Over the past few years the Compagnia has developed a joint programme with the City of Genoa to promote and renovate the art, monuments and museums of the Ligurian capital city.

In this framework, and in view of the G8 Summit that will take place in Genoa in the summer of year 2001, the Compagnia allocated 5,020 million Lire for the renovation of the main buildings looking onto via Garibaldi, also known as the "Strada Nuova (the New Street)", reconnecting what used to be the historical links among the aristocracy's dwellings, Palazzo Rosso, Palazzo Bianco, Palazzo Doria Tursi, Palazzo Spinola. The itinerary of the future network of museums in the Strada Nuova will take off with Palazzo Doria Tursi, now the Town Hall, continue through the garden to Palazzo Bianco an important collection of 15-18th Century Ligurian and Flemish paintings and finish with Palazzo Rosso, the former seat of the Brignole Sale family which also hosts their collection of paintings. The overall lay-out of the Strada Nuova museum network will be finished by 2004 and will cost about 30 billion Lire. According to the agreement signed with City of Genoa, the Compagnia will award grants for the restoration of the façade of Palazzo Rosso and of Palazzo Bianco as well as for the gardens, the lighting, the balustrade and the paving outside the afore mentioned building.

LAND USE AND REGENERATION

PIEDMONT AND LIGURIA

Regeneration is one of the Compagnia's main commitments, hence the focus on the renovation and restoration of buildings and of the collections housed in them. Projects are also aimed at a better contextualising of the buildings and collections in their surroundings. In the year 2000, the Compagnia awarded 5 grants, amounting to L. 3,050 million Lire. The standard allocation awarded for the regeneration of purpose-built centres for art collections and exhibitions was increased with the grant to the Ecomuseo of the Magliano Alfieri and the Settimo Torinese Municipalities: their aim is to rediscover the traditions, life and work of the local communities.

Magliano Alfieri (Cuneo). Alfieri's Castle

A 900 million grant was awarded for the renovation of the south-west wing of Alfieri's Castle in Magliano Alfieri, once the family and Vittorio Alfieri's summer abode. Part of the Castle will house an ethnographic Museum called "Museo del Tanaro" (Tanaro River Museum).

The renovation and refurbishment of the industrial archaeology buildings is funded by the European Union and is wholly part of the system of Open Air Heritage Museums (also known as Ecomuseums) of the Region Piedmont and the Province of Turin. The plan is to regenerate these venues and create a new kind of tourism along side that arising from a more consolidated interest in history and art. The new Ecomuseum has a vital role to play in the cultural and environmental regeneration of the Turin outskirts.

Carmagnola (Turin). Palazzo Lomellini

Over the past three years the town of Carmagnola has been involved in a major regeneration plan to upgrade its historical centre. The plan also includes the creation of a Town Museum of Modern and Contemporary Art in the listed Palazzo

The Compagnia awarded grants in this field too, this year as previously: 200 million Lire were allocated for the renovation of the Fenestrelle Fort and 40 million Lire for the Bramafam Fort in Bardonecchia.

THE CENTOCITTÀ PRIZE

The buildings are intended to host activities of public interest, social use and promote economic development.

The need to contribute to the growth of the individual by offering a formative cultural experience and by favouring a balanced use of the environment for a positive fall-out on the heritage and social development premised the Compagnia's work in this area for the year 2000.

When and if culture "consumption" is not seen as a mere passing entertainment, then the need for early and uninterrupted culture training surfaces. Studying and listening to music, going to theatres and cinemas, museum tours, libraries attendance, reading and writing are all activities which different age and education groups can equally enjoy, first as a completion of their school time, and later as an enrichment of their daily lives. Likewise, the standard and variety of cultural experiences and the safeguard of sources are as important.

The Compagnia's commitment enshrines all the above and is embodied in its various projects which contribute to the appreciation and growth of the cultural resources of value in the area. Developments in the field of music, theatre and cinema have been triggered by previous or current changes in the law. The current situation is leading to the self-sorting of the various bodies and agencies: the Compagnia is following this process carefully so as to fine tune its best cultural policies and make them more effective.

Consolidated theme areas, such as BOOKS AND ARCHIVES, THEATRE, MUSIC AND DANCE, CINEMA AND PHOTOGRAPHY branch out covering several cultural forms. The section on ENVIRONMENTAL HERITAGE has acquired especial importance, as stated by the new Articles of Association of the Compagnia which was implemented in the course of the year. Other areas of interest that could be referred to as HUMAN SCIENCES AND HISTORICAL AND SOCIAL SCIENCES have also been identified as areas of interest.

THEATRE

The 18 theatre projects totalled 2,260 million Lire: grants mirror the Compagnia's intention to back the public sector theatre confirming its role in upholding both tradition and change, new energy and ideas as well as appreciating the linguistic and theatrical renewal process, where companies are open to the social and cultural dynamics of our present day society.

The largest grant went to the Turin Teatro Stabile, 1,500 million Lire including the ordinary allocation to the 1999-2000 and 2000-2001 theatre seasons and an extraordinary 300 million contribution for the Selection of International Theatre which played a number of meaningful productions from other countries in the autumn of the year 2000.

As for the smaller companies, allocations were confirmed to associations actively experimenting and training,

As for Archives and Libraries more specifically, the Compagnia has endeavoured to promote and support projects aimed at enhancing the value of the places where memory and conservation are, that is centres of activity able to circulate the knowledge of the treasures they possess thanks to the means cutting edge technology offers. This is why cataloguing and computerisation of special collections and bequeaths of books and documents have such an important role, and work to conserve and to favour the knowledge and consultation of the documents and books was financed: The Turin State Archives 300 million Lire for the creation of a Restoration and Bookbinding Workshop; The Centre for Piedmontese Studies: 300 million Lire for the project “Giulio Einaudi Editore Historical Archives”; the Rosselli Foundation - Turin: 200 million Lire for the purchase and reorganising of Nello Rosselli’s library and documentation; the Luigi Einaudi Foundation-Turin: 200 million Lire; Cesmeo - Turin: 100 million Lire; Luigi Firpo Foundation - Turin: 100 million Lire; the Contemporary Jewish Documentation Centre - Milan: 75 million Lire; the Piero Gobetti Research Centre- Turin: 70 million Lire;

Linguistic Ethnographic Centre of Turin: 75 million Lire, the Cultural Academy of the New Arts in Turin, 15 million Lire).

Several facets of music can be appreciated in a number of projects with very diverse aims: bearing witness to history and civil culture (Verdi's Celebrations of the Carlo Felice Opera House Foundation in Genoa, 100 million Lire), spiritual expression (the Rive Gauche Concerts Association – Turin, A day's Research into Present Day Music and Spirituality, 10 million Lire) or a therapeutic aid (Piedmont's Youth Orchestra, Music and Illness, 25 million Lire).

The Piedmontese Institute for Musical Heritage was awarded 100 million Lire for the restoration of ancient music collections and bequeaths as well as original unpublished music sheets, and a pre-feasibility study (50 million Lire) was carried out to assess the idea of restoring the collection of musical instruments of the Turin Conservatory to study and use them. Local roots and international visibility were the key to dancing activities: Vignale Danze (100 million Lire) and Acqui in Palcoscenico (25 million Lire) completed by the production of ballets and training of young people.

CINEMA AND PHOTOGRAPHY

The 13 grants amounting to 1,507 million Lire echo an especially promising moment for the City of Turin, the birthplace of the Italian film industry.

The renovated premises of National Film Museum at the Mole Antonelliana have made it possible to display the wealth of collections in a unique framework and are becoming one of the main cultural and tourist attractions of the City. The Museum received the largest grant (982 million Lire) including the membership fee and the contribution for the renovation of the Massimo Cinema, which completes the exposition area. Turin's bodies and associations of national importance were also allocated funds, in so far as they promote the film industry, and new multimedia and audiovisual languages (Association of the Friends of the Film Museum- Turin: 90 million Lire); likewise those active in the field of history and research: the Cultural Association ORSA - Turin (30 million Lire), FERT - Filming with a European Regard in Turin - Turin (20 million Lire).

A kindred art, photography has recently been recognised as part of our cultural heritage: in the year 2000 the Compagnia awarded a grant to an interesting project to enhance the circulation and awareness of photographic culture by the Italian Foundation of Photography – in Turin, a centre of excellence and national focal point (90 million Lire).

NATURAL AND BUILT ENVIRONMENT

Three grants for 3,720 million Lire were awarded under this heading and channelled some of the Compagnia's main activities in the course of the year: other than defence of the environment – such as the environmental certificates for the Regina Margherita Refuge - 20 million Lire - and the commitment to the regeneration of modern urban spaces that could not be postponed (City of Turin, Urban II, 700 million Lire, see Education, Research and Welfare), most resources were allocated to the appreciation of the historical-artistic value of the landscape, thus completing the complex Villa della Regina Project on the Turin hillside (see Art Section for the description). A 3,000 million grant was awarded for the conservation and restoration of the buildings and gardens.

HUMAN, HISTORICAL AND SOCIAL SCIENCES

Furthermore, in December 2000 the Compagnia outlined the guidelines listed in the Section "Programme on research, prevention and treatment in the oncological field" (The Oncology Programme). The aim of the programme is to co-ordinate intersectorial projects, creating a comprehensive approach to the fight against cancer. ## CREATION AND DEVELOPMENT OF HOSPITAL FACILITIES

In this field the Compagnia awarded 6 grants, amounting to 4,764 million Lire.

◆ The Compagnia allocated 3,500 million lire to the Turin San Secondo Foundation for Research on Alzheimer's for the creation of a 'Memory Clinic' in Collegno (Turin). The Compagnia awarded 1,750 million lire from the Health budget, as was awarded from the Assistance budget.

Ranica (Bergamo): once renovated, this rural building will host the Transplant Research Centre: in the 1999-2000 two year period the Compagnia awarded 550 million Lire for its establishment.

◆ Bone marrow transplants have changed the outlook for many patients suffering from severe diseases – such as acute and chronic leukaemia, medullar aplasia. The transplants have also improved the quality of life in certain conditions, such as thalassaemia major, and sickle cell anaemia. In 1999 at the Centre for Bone Marrow Transplants at the OIRM/S. Anna Hospital Trust in Turin thirty-three autologous transplants and thirteen allogenic transplants were carried out on children suffering from severe blood diseases. The Compagnia awarded a 500 million grant for the renovation of the Centre.

◆ The Milan ART - Association for Transplant Research - developed a project in co-operation with The Mario Negri Institute for Pharmacological Research with the aim of researching into immunological tolerance, xenografts and cell transplants. The Centre is in the Villa Camozzi complex at Ranica (Bergamo) and is connected to the Aldo and Cele Daccò Rare Disease Centre. In 1999 the Compagnia awarded a 400 million grant to the Centre, and awarded a further 150 million for the completion of the building work and of the facilities and fixtures.

ADVANCED TRAINING AND BIOMEDICAL RESEARCH

The Health Sector awarded 16 grants for biomedical research, thus completing funds allocated under the Research Heading. The overall allocation amounted to 2,113 million Lire.

◆ Throughout their two year project, The Centre for Advanced Biomedical Research in Genoa jointly with the University of Turin - Department of Biomedical Science/IRCC the Institute for Cancer Research and Treatment in Candiolo (Turin) - Molecular Oncology Division, have been studying angiogenesis inhibitors. The Genoa research group intends to identify the actual relationship between anti-angiogenic factors in endothelial activation and the inhibition of the cancer mass growth. The Turin group intends to study innovative treatments that target tumour angiogenesis. The Compagnia awarded 610 million Lire for the project.

◆ The purpose of the clinical and biological project submitted by the University of Genoa's Department of Internal Medicine and Medical Specialisations, part of the San Martino Hospital, is to develop the possible therapeutic benefits of an allogenic transplant of haematopoietic stem cells for patients that could not be included so far because of age or clinical conditions. The Compagnia awarded 240 million Lire for the first year's research.

◆ In 1999 the Compagnia awarded 63 million Lire to the Operative Unit of Metabolic Diseases and Diabetes of the Turin Eye Hospital. The grant was used in the year 2000 for a programme of care for diabetes patients in the Turin Health District 1 (ASL1). A specific service offered jointly with the Eye Hospital to diabetes patients with retinopathy, with a follow-up of the patients who tested positive.

The Compagnia awarded 190 million Lire to improve the quality of the care offered by the Operative Unit of Metabolic Diseases and Diabetes.

◆ The University of Turin's Laboratory of Cell Biology of the Department of Genetics, Biology and Biochemistry intends to research the receptors of the cells involved in the regulation of a study comparing normal and cancer cells, to identify the structural and function differences that can be used as tumour markers. The Compagnia awarded 180 million Lire for the project.

◆ Hyperthermal-antineoplastic perfusion is one of the approaches in the fight against cancer: it uses extra-corporeal circulation and therefore makes it possible to administer directly to the tumour large doses of chemotherapy which the patients could not otherwise withstand. The 3rd Surgical Division of the Physio-pathological Clinic of the University of Turin started studying and testing this technique in 1995. The Compagnia awarded 155 million Lire for the second year's research.

◆ The Traumatology, Orthopaedics and Industrial Medicine Department of the University of Turin and the Neuroradiology Self-contained Operative Unit of the CTO/CRF/Maria Adelaide Hospital of Turin established a co-operative project to study Parkinson patients on a clinical level, in the laboratory and in neuro-radiology. Patients had to have high levels of manganese blood levels and be under 55. The Compagnia awarded 130 million Lire for a four year research grant.

◆ In 1998 the CTO/CRF/Maria Adelaide Hospital of Turin opened the first Italian bank of cryo-preservation of skin. The bank is the only one of its type in Italy, which is why it provides with skin other centres using epithelial cultures and alloplastic skin flaps for the cure of several traumatic and non traumatic pathologies, as well as catering for the needs of the Burns Centre of Turin. In the year 2000 the Compagnia allocated 80 million Lire for the fine-tuning of a sophisticated method using molecular biology to evidence the presence of viruses – such as HIV and Cytomegalovirus – in the skin flap grafts.

The Compagnia awarded a 900 million Lire grant for the updating of the advanced diagnostic equipment, and specifically for the enhancing of the gradient systems, the replacement of the IT equipment, and the introduction of new software to process the data acquired through magnetic resonance.

◆ The Region Piedmont appointed the Giovanni Bosco Hospital as the general centre for the Emergency Treatment and Admission (DEA) for the Northern part of the city and of the Province of Turin for specialised wards such as neuro-surgery, vascular surgery and heart surgery. For neuro-surgery and neuro-resuscitation and for the needs of the poly-traumatised patient with neuro-surgical problems, the Compagnia awarded 310 million for the purchase of scientific equipment.

The Compagnia awarded a 72 million grant for the purchase of an intensive neonatal unit able to guarantee the most advanced treatments.

◆ In the 1996-1999 period the Compagnia allocated funds for the upgrading of the operating theatre of the Neurosurgical Ward of the CTO/CRF/Maria Adelaide Hospitals in Turin. In the past the Compagnia focused on the following areas: drug and alcohol addiction, disability and prevention of hardship, elderly people in need, care and cure, social inclusion of people experiencing hardship. Currently a new focus has been added, that is the prison system: it is a complex system requiring a multi-pronged approach to re-socialisation and to work for present and former inmates. Projects have been mainly developed in co-operation with public bodies and voluntary organisations.

The Compagnia also acted through the Ufficio Pio, which continues to be in charge of the assistance for people and households in difficulty, although the Ufficio is progressively moving towards the development and implementation of complex projects.

UFFICIO PIO

For the year 2000, the Compagnia allocated resources amounting to 5,000 million Lire to the Ufficio Pio, which awarded 3,500 individual grants totalling 4,350 million Lire.

In the course of the year 2000, the re-organisation of the Ufficio Pio began. Among other changes, it led to the creation of the Associazione Volontari Ufficio Pio San Paolo (The Association of the Voluntary Workers of the San Paolo Ufficio Pio) which is now in charge of managing the so called “ordinary individual grants” or subsidies: the Delegati di beneficenza working in the Turin Metropolitan area and aimed at dealing with the crisis emergencies where individuals and households are involved.

Activities relating to social emergency have been managed by the above mentioned office since last September and remain the core of the Ufficio Pio’s work: about 4,400 people were seen in the office, 638 of whom for the first time. Individual grants exceeded 3,500 million Lire in all – that is about 70% of the Ufficio’s overall budget. The Ufficio Pio’s aim is to move beyond mere assistance and to favour once again self-reliance of those in difficulty: with this aim in mind, the Ufficio has organised projects and services, totalling 1,000 million Lire in grants.

Specifically, 18 new training-back-to-work grants were awarded to members of households in difficulty (241 million Lire). Nine of the 13 training-grants come to an end and led to permanent positions, with a 70% success rate.

Youngsters at risk and training: participation to the existing project on school drop-outs “Play it again Sam” (in co-operation with the Social Service and Education Department of the City of Turin and the Education Authority) was confirmed. The project is aimed at youngsters who have failed to complete compulsory schooling by the age of 15: 126 boys and girls were included in the 1999/2000 school year, 110 of whom managed to pass their qualifying exams. In the 2000/2001 school year the project has been developed and action is taken as from the early years of the Junior High School, thus attempting to prevent dropping out. Two hundred and sixteen million Lire were awarded to these projects.

Grants for the purchase of school books were awarded to secondary school children and University students: 175 students were awarded these sums, which came to a total of 52 million for the Ufficio Pio.

Furthermore, 153 youngsters enjoyed a number of summer projects – such as summer camps at the sea and in the mountains, the Spazio Giovani. Funds allocated for these activities totalled 250 million Lire, including the contributions for the Estate Ragazzi project organised by other bodies.

As for health, 120 people benefited from free dental care, totalling 123 million Lire. Grants to the elderly were integrated, with services including short summer holidays in healthy locations.

Other actions were taken to deal with situations of hardship arising from hospitalisation or imprisonment, or in very critical situations, such as the case of the homeless (144 million Lire in total).

The Ufficio Pio manages a nursing home for the elderly with 39 residents, 10 of whom not self-reliant. The Nursing Home, Villa Mater in Rivoli (Turin) is part of a specific bequest.

MUSEUM PROGRAMME

PROGRAMME FOR THE DEVELOPMENT OF MUSEUM DISTRICT IN TURIN'S CITY CENTRE

In 1996-2000 the Compagnia identified the so called “zona di comando” (the District of Savoy Government) as one of the keys to the recovery, renovation and re-launching of Turin's city centre: the process is driven by the comprehensive co-ordinated improvement and upgrading of the museums of the area.

The Museums in the District were set up by the Savoy Governments, consistently with the Kingdom's policy – before and after the Unity of Italy – and were mainly set up in the wake of the collectioning true of the time. The Compagnia studied the Museums and their re-organisation assessing them as a single system from the Royal Workshops and Services – that is to say from the Roman Gates (Porte Palatine) – to the Cavallerizza and to the Mole Antonelliana, through the Museum of Antiquities, the Roman Archaeological site, the New Wing of the Royal Palace, the main Royal, Madama and Carignano Palaces, the Royal Gardens, the Royal Armoury, the Royal Library, the State Archive and the Royal Opera House (Teatro Regio). Over the past few years, the Compagnia has acquired the basic background information to assess the feasibility and appropriateness of the project and create a new “Citadel of the Arts” . The effectiveness and the suitability of the project are being evaluated in the context of Turin's and Piedmont's cultural and economic development.

The year 2000 saw both a need to address the growing importance of the above as well as the approval of the Compagnia's new regulations, featuring programmes as a means of implementig its activities. Programmes were defined as a “....co-ordinated and integrated approach aimed at one or more objectives consistently with the aims and the activities of the Compagnia, developing a cross-sector approach when required...”. The Museum Programme is a multi-year cross-sector project: the developments of the past years can thus be seen as a whole, in essence and formally, so that the creation of the Museum District will be compatible with future activities, in agreement with the main institutional, economic and cultural actors of the city.

The Compagnia's commitment is for the city centre's art, history and architecture to blend into one system, a vision which requires public and private sectors to operate jointly as well as needing the co-operation of all local actors - at every level in society. The programme is consistent with the Regional Government's strategy and in fact can play a key role in the plan it has had for years to organise the Savoy heritage into an itinerary thus turning it into the hallmark, a symbol of the cultural roots of the artistic and historical history, many of which are currently scattered across Piedmont.

The Programme is organised in six main areas identified on the basis of our past experience (see the map):

1. The area of the Roman Gates (Porte Palatine) and archaeological park: itineraries of the Roman past;
2. The Royal Palace and Piazza Castello area: itineraries of Savoy collections;
3. The Royal Cavalerizza: new opportunities for exposition areas, possibly integrated with the Royal Palace;

4. The via Po and Piazza Vittorio Veneto area, with the National Film Museum at the Mole Antonelliana;
5. The Carignano Palace district: itineraries of the Italian Risorgimento;
6. The former Collegio dei Nobili: experiencing the culture and world of ancient Egypt.

The Compagnia awarded 25.5 billion Lire in the year 2000, including new funds (19 billion Lire) and the reallocation of funds carried over from previous years (6.5 billion Lire).

THE ONCOLOGY PROGRAMME

PROGRAMME FOR THE RESEARCH, PREVENTION AND TREATMENT OF CANCER

In view of the growing social implications of cancer, and of the importance of the scientific research needed for cure and treatment, the Compagnia has been developing and enhancing its oncology projects. The approach applies to the whole country, and internationally not just to Piedmont.

This is why a “Programme for the research, prevention and treatment of cancer” has been developed and will officially start in the year 2001: it will involve the Health, Scientific Research, Education and Assistance Sectors and will be known as the “Oncology Programme”.

The following areas make up the Oncology Programme:

1. Research in the various phases of specialisation, the circulation of results and the life-long training of staff (known as “Experimental Research and Training”);
2. District and Hospital activities focussing on prevention, both as far as diagnosis and subsequent cancer treatment are concerned (known as “Prevention, diagnosis and treatment”);
3. The purchase of new equipment and the creation of specialised structures of excellence, for treatment and research (“Facilities and Technological Equipment”).

At the end of the year 2000 the Compagnia approved grants for the initial funding of the Oncology programme with 33 billion Lire from the statutory activity funds, shared out among Health, Research and Education Sectors.

Since the Programme planning is advanced and considering the Compagnia’s previous major commitments in the field, some of the projects – involving both facilities and research projects – have been approved under the three above-mentioned headings and grants were awarded from programme funds.

Research, Experiments and Training

◆ The project presented by EUROSEA - the Comitato Interregionale Europeo per lo Sviluppo di Sistemi Innovativi Energia-Ambiente based in Turin focuses on the use of boron therapy or radiotherapy for the neutron-capture of boron, known with the acronym Boron Neutron Capture Therapy (BNCT). Phase one will develop the scientific aspects, the feasibility study and will carry out the identification of the specific scientific, technological and therapeutic specifications with regards to boron therapy. The objective of phase two is to develop facilities at a high standard Hospital Centre in Piedmont.

Of the University of Turin are involved in the project. The research project was awarded 375 million Lire for the first year.

◆ Neuro-Endocrine Tumours (NET) are rare cancers developing from the cells of the endocrine system that may develop in various organs and apparatuses. Specifically, tumours of the thyroid medulla, adrenal gland pheochromocytomas, well differentiated endocrine tumours (carcinoids) and not well differentiated tumours of the gastro-intestinal tract, of the pancreas and of the respiratory apparatus.

Facilities and Technological Equipment

◆ PET (Positron Emission Tomography) is a non invasive diagnostic system by images, based on the use of radio-active tracings which are englobed in molecular complexes and are administered to the patients being examined to obtain functional-metabolic information on the biochemical processes underlying the development of certain diseases. PET's main fields of application are oncology, cardiology and neurology. The project was presented by the San Giovanni Battista Hospital Trust in Turin and foresees the creation of PET Centre at the Molinette Hospital. The intention is for the new Centre to become a point of reference for the Region's Oncology Network and also entails the construction of satellite or "peripheral" centres in a consortium. The Compagnia awarded 1 billion Lire to the creation of the PET Centre at the Molinette Hospital in Turin.

Turin, the Molinette Hospital. The Compagnia awarded 1 billion Lire for a new high technology diagnostic centre, based on the use of "PET" (Positron Emission Tomography).

◆ The OIRM/S. Anna Hospital of Turin has an inter-department laparoscopy service and since 1998 an Interdept. Gynaecological Laparoscopy Service has also been established: other Hospital Divisions also have access to it. The Unit is the Regional Centre for gynaecological endoscopy. The Compagnia awarded a 253 million contribution for the purchase of state of the art scientific equipment.
